What's happening in Art class?

We're down to the final weeks of school and our Scholar artists have had a great year so far. We've learned a lot about how to create great art and they've been producing some awesome stuff. Our fourth graders have been learning about the elements of color, value, texture, line and geometric shapes. We'll be finishing out the year learning about organic shapes, three dimensional forms, and space in art. Fifth and sixth grade have been learning about the principles of design. They've worked on balance, movement, and repetition, pattern, and rhythm. Next up for this final quarter will be the principles of emphasis, proportion, variety, and unity. Check out the amazing drawings these students have done to show movement that are hanging in the hall outside the lunchroom. They did some remarkable work!
